Dear Lenita,

Hi. We felt it was important to send you an update about Audrey.

In our update last Friday, I wrote about Audrey's leg pain.

"Whether it's related or not to the ablation procedure, she has developed pain and discomfort up and down both of her legs. Standing or walking, the pain is there. She says that the pain level is at about 8. Audrey has an appointment with her pain doctor next week on Monday afternoon."

Please continue in the next segment to find out about that appointment.

PRAISE AND PRAYER

First, the ablation that Audrey had on October 1st, is working well, so she does not have any more back pain.

From Monday's appointment at Advanced Pain of Tulsa, it's determined that Audrey has neuropathy in the lumbar area due to severe spinal stenosis which is causing the pain and discomfort up and down her legs. Reviewing all her records there, it's determined that they've done as much as possible to reliever her of the pain, except for one more injection that might possibly help her. That injection will be on October 28th. If that doesn't help her then the next step is to see a neurosurgeon concerning back surgery.

Right now, after much discussion and prayer, I'm still scheduled to leave for Mexico soon.*

So, please pray for us while I'm traveling for good ministry opportunities and for Audrey to be safe and secure.

THANK YOU!
